Comment from Dr Jeremy Hodge, chief executive British Approvals Service for Cables (BASEC) regarding the approval by BASEC of Guardian™

“Irish Driver-Harris’ Guardian is a clever solution for protecting cables in walls. This BASEC approved cable will help installations to comply with clause 522.6.5 of the 17th Edition of the IEE Wiring Regulations.

“As with all our approved products Guardian has been fully laboratory tested to the latest requirements and will continue to undergo BASEC surveillance as part of our ongoing assessment process.

”As a cable product certification body it is our job to ensure products sent for approval undergo fully independent test procedures using the latest equipment and technology. We provide products certification for cable manufacturers and employ the very best laboratories to conduct tests to all specifications and standards.

“We carefully guard our reputation for providing professional and rigorous assessments which is why our certification is highly respected throughout the World.”
